Work Experience

Digital Workshop Center, April 2013 - present

Contract Designer/Instructor

The Digital Workshop Center is a computer training school geared toward adults & professionals. I teach Adobe CC, web development & design classes in Fort Collins and along the front range. I also conduct workshops for local business & CSU marketing classes.

Container and Packaging Supply, August 2010 - March 2012

Senior Designer

CPS is the premier one stop shop for all of your packaging needs. Label design and application are just the beginning. Imagine sourcing all your packaging necessities - container, cap, design, label and application from one partner. My role was to help develop and maintain a new art department through product decoration and commercial design services on behalf of a wide range of CPS clientele.

Central Ohio Technical College, September 2007 - March 2011

Instructor - Media Arts

As a full time instructor for COTC, I enjoyed working with my students in order to increase their skill sets, knowledge, and desire to continue to learn about digital media. The classes I taught ranged from graphic design history to introductory drawing, graphic design and web development.

Newark, OH | 740.366.1351 | www.cotc.edu

The Works Museum, November 2004 - September 2007 (includes 1 year internship)

Creative Director

I worked closely with staff, committees, artists and exhibitors on projects ranging from interactive exhibits to printed promotional materials, event signage and web content. Working for a non-profit facility like The Works required excellent teamwork skills and strict adherence to deadlines and budgetary limits.
